Cuno Government Faced
With Labor Wage Revolt
of Serious Nature

Berlin, June 18.—With the French occupation of Essen-Dortmund main railway line completed, the whole occupied area is now severed from the rest of Germany.

Factories that had been employing thousands will be shutting down this week. The food situation is the most critical since the French took over the Essen line. The Germans are charging openly that General De Goutte is starving into surrender the people he has been unable to bend to his will by other methods.

A general strike of all workmen in Germany is being urged by the radical unionists following the mob demonstrations in Brandenburg, and extra police precautions are being taken in all industrial centers.

Radical leaders are sending out propaganda and agents to all work centers in Germany in an effort to spread the strike. This action is not considered as a protest against the Ruhr occupation so much as a demonstration against capital.

In Mulheim the miners went out on strike and the homes of several mine directors were looted by the mobs. Some of the men went back to their jobs when their demands were met by the industrial chiefs. At Brandenburg there was much firing, but no casualties were reported. The city is quiet.

The Cuno government today is faced with a labor wage revolt which threatens to get beyond control of the trade union leaders. The latter have just sent a warning to Chancellor Cuno, which is a repetition of the warning of June 2 which remained unanswered.

Labor wants a sweeping readjustment of wage scales, insisting that the American dollar or the gold mark be set up as a basis.

Germany today is a country where every workman is a millionaire but the more millions he gets the less he can buy for his paper marks because prices keep pace with the rise in the value of the dollar. Saving is useless for the same reason.

German masses are living from hand to mouth. This is gradually undermining the morale of the people.

Sporadic strikes are breaking out everywhere with the rank and file ignoring the veterans leaders. Meanwhile the Reds are active, enlisting recruits among the discontented and rebellious ranks of the unions. The present week finds the government in a critical position while awaiting a decisive answer to the latest reparations note addressed to the entente. Internal labor storms are brewing which may easily develop into a general strike. But the trade union treasuries are depleted and it would be impossible to give relief if a general strike broke out.

UNCONFIRMED REPORT SAYS COMMUNITY OF 13,000 WIPED OUT

Volcano Sending Forth Stream of Molten Lava Which
Destroys Everything In Its Path—Troops Dis-
patched to Scene of Trouble to Aid Refugees

London, June 18.—An unconfirmed report reached Rome from Naples this afternoon that Linguaglossa, a community of 13,000 souls, has been totally destroyed by molten lava from Mount Etna, said an Exchange Telegram dispatch from Rome this evening. A portion of Cerro was said to have been wiped out also. The flow of lava continues.

An Exchange Telegram dispatch said that a fifth fissure had opened up in the crater and a stream of lava was soon belching forth to reinforce the flaming river already flowing down the mountain side.

Troops were dispatched in the direction of Linguaglossa with motor cars to aid the people in their flight. Up to the time the Exchange Telegram dispatch had been filed in Rome no loss of life had been reported nor had official confirmation been received that Linguaglossa was destroyed. Advice from Catania described pitiful scenes in the region of the volcano, especially in Linguaglossa where terror-stricken women, clasping babes in their arms, rushed into churches to pray for safety. The fascisti are aiding in the rescue work and government funds have been placed at the disposal of the refugees.

LIGHT VOTE IN MINNESOTA IS CAST ON MONDAY

Political Heads in Washington Interested In
Outcome

Minneapolis, Minn., June 18.—In spite of intensive campaigns for several weeks by 14 candidates in three parties for party nominations for United States senator, voting today in Minnesota's state wide primary was light, with one of the smallest total votes ever recorded in a primary election in the state expected. The Republican, Farmer-Labor and Democratic parties are each to choose one candidate today to contest July 15 for the unexpired senatorial term of the late Knute Nelson.

The hottest fight in the Republican primary, were nine candidates, including Governor Preus, State Supreme Justice Hallum, Congressman Anderson and Schall and ex-Congressman Stoenerson and Lunden are running.

The rank and file of the Republican party, judging from the light vote, appears to be willing to wait for the election before turning out a vote. The light vote is believed to favor Governor Preus.

Washington, June 18.—Political leaders of every shade of opinion in Washington had their ears cocked to the Northwest today, where Minnesota is witnessing a battle royal for the Senate seat left vacant by the death of the venerable Knute Nelson.

The result in the Gopher state primary today is expected to afford an illuminating insight into the political temper of the grain belt and the political map makers of the capital will chart their respective courses for 1924 with an eye on what is revealed in today's primary and next month's election.

THOUGHT DEAD BUT VERY MUCH ALIVE

Warren J. Lincoln, horticulturist of Aurora, Illinois, whose presumed murderers have been sought all over the United States following his disappearance and the finding of blood-stained Indian clubs, has returned to the little town, telling a weird story of being kidnapped in a plot engineered by his estranged wife. The sheriff, doubting the story, has dropped the case.

OX-CART PIONEER RIDES IN AIRPLANE

Mrs. Gertrude Freeman, of Sacramento, who plodded across the continent in 1856 by ox-cart, has lived to ride over the same route in an airplane. She is 84 and had ridden in buggies, trains and automobiles, but the trip in the clouds was a novel experience. According to R. L. Clancy, who piloted the plane in which Mrs. Freeman flew in a few hours over cities which once were rolling plains, taking days to traverse, she acted "like a regular veteran."

SISTERS IN COURT ON MURDER CHARGE

Mrs. Anna McGinnis & Myna Ploch, Mrs.

Mrs. Anna McGinnis, of Chicago, and her sister, Myna Ploch are on trial there, with two "sheik" friends, charged with the murder of Michael McGinnis, a city fireman and Anna's husband. Myna Ploch asserted she shot McGinnis when he attempted to snatch a breakfast cap from her sister's head so that a man friend who was with him might try to identify her as a "curly haired vamp" he knew.

FORD DECLARES HE IS NOT CANDIDATE

Springfield, Mass., June 18.—Henry Ford will not be a candidate for the presidency in 1924. The Detroit manufacturer so declared just before leaving the city today. Ford had conducted a three day search in western Massachusetts towns for additions to his collection of antiques.

"I have no desire to be president of the United States," he said. "I am too much occupied with my own affairs to become the next president and I do not intend to run."

NEW ARMAMENT CONTEST IS ON IT IS BELIEVED

Great Britain's Giant
Submarine Secretly
Launched

London, June 18.—Great Britain's "mystery ship," the giant submarine X-1, is featured in all the London newspapers, the consensus being that this vessel sets all foreign powers guessing.

All England is discussing the new "monster of the deep," which is 1,400 tons larger than the largest German U-boat, the U-142, and has a total displacement of 3,600 tons. It was launched at Chatham.

The X-1 was laid down 10 days before the Washington arms conference, at which England agreed not to build submarines carrying guns larger than 8 inches. The X-1 is said to carry a 13.5-inch rifle.

It has a cruising radius of about 6,000 miles, which is considerably superior to that of the German undersea cruiser, the Deutschland, which visited America during the war. It is propelled by electricity when submerged, and by steam on the surface.

This battleship of the sub-surface will cost about $4,000,000 when completed, and is capable of operating with the battle fleet on the surface or submerged, and also of operating alone over a wide area and away from her base.

Upon the results of tests of the X-1, British and foreign naval engineers believe the future of war vessel construction will depend. There is a possibility, it was pointed out, that the present surface type of dreadnaught, cruiser, scout and destroyer might give way to boats capable of operating submerged. The X-1 will be equipped with radio of wide range.

The Daily Herald sees a new armaments contest in the launching of the super-submarine. It says: "In spite of the Washington conference the world is on the eve of a new era of ruinous competition in naval armaments. The giant submarine X-1, launched with great secrecy, is the first of a new type of warship unaffected by the Washington restrictions. Like the dreadnaught in 1905, she will compel the building of new fleets at a fantastic expense by every great power. Then, jealousies and suspicions engendered by the rivalry may bring about a new war. As a cruiser she could prey at will on merchantmen, and nothing but a battleship could catch her, while the moment a battleship appeared anywhere in the neighborhood the X-1 would become a submarine and disappear. Similarly she would evade aircraft."

SHOTS GIRL WIFE, THEN SUICIDES

Hagerstown, Md., June 17.—Concealed in a clump of bushes along a roadside, Roy Smith, 20, of Woodsboro, Md., today shot and killed his 19-year-old wife, seriously wounded her father two sisters and another girl, and then committed suicide, according to the police.

The boy had been separated from his wife for a week. He lay in waiting for the party accompanying Rev. J. A. Saxton in a carriage and opened fire as they approached. The minister's 11-year-old daughter was wounded.

Smith then ran to a wheatfield where he sent a bullet through his brain.

Professor Eubank escaped injury, but minor injuries were suffered by his three small daughters.

REBUKE HANDED RAIL FIRM FOR DISOBEDIENCE

Board Charges P. R. R. Refused to Treat With
Its Employees

Chicago, June 18.—The United States railroad labor board, for the first time, exercised its power to administer a public rebuke to a railroad company for failure to obey its decision.

It is the only means the board has of penalizing either companies or labor unions for failing to comply with its decision.

The Pennsylvania railroad is the company held up to public rebuke. The case grew out of the shopmen's strike.

The Pennsylvania was ordered to treat with employees in the matter of wages and working conditions with representatives selected by the employees. Instead, it is charged, the company caused to be circulated ballots among the employees with the names of certain individuals printed as candidates for representatives of the employees. The labor board refused to recognize representatives selected in this way. The Pennsylvania was ordered to employ the usual form in treating with its employees and refused.

The rebuke of the labor board says in part:

"The course adopted by the Pennsylvania system in this matter is indefensible from every viewpoint. It can not be justified on the ground that the contention of the employees or the decision of the board deprived the carrier of the right to deal with its own employees. The plan called 'employee representation,' which the Pennsylvania system assumes to have originated, is guaranteed in the transportation act of 1920 and prevails on the railroads throughout the United States.

"If employee representation means anything at all, it signifies the right of a class of employees, through majority action, to select their own representatives to negotiate with the carrier agreements covering wages and working conditions. This is what congress said it meant, but the shop crafts have so far been deprived of this plain, simple, indisputable right on the Pennsylvania system."

"The railroad labor board, under the authority of section 313 of the transportation act of 1920, finds that the Pennsylvania system has violated decision No. 218 after the supreme court had upheld the board's right to render said decision, and has thereby denied to its employees essential rights as laboring men, to which congress had declared them entitled."

PILOTS ARE SELECTED TO TEST BOMBER

Lieutenants Leigh Wade and Harold R. Harris of Wilbur Wright Field, Fairfield, have been selected by the war department as pilots of the new "two-and-one-half planer" Barling Bomber on its test trip at that flying field.

The ship is the largest flying machine ever built, measuring 120 feet from tip to tip, weighing 40,000 pounds and being powered with six Liberty motors. The ship has a flying speed of not less than 90 miles an hour. The gasoline capacity is 2,000 gallons and 181 gallons of oil and a minimum operating crew of four will be required. The ship will carry 4000 pounds of bombs at a time. The ship has a 12 hour speed flight capacity and will carry seven guns.

WANT AMERICA AS ARBITRATOR OF RUHR ISSUE

Great Britain Reported to
Have Sounded Out U. S.
On Project

OFFICIALS SILENT

Diplomatic Circles, However, Generally Credit
Rumor as Authentic

London, June 18.—Persistent reports were current here this afternoon that Great Britain has informally sounded Washington as to whether the United States would be willing to act as arbitrator in the Ruhr reparations crisis.

While the origin of these reports was not determined, they are believed to have arisen from Premier Stanley Baldwin's speech Saturday when he said the whole world was looking to Great Britain and America for salvation.

Another interpretation placed upon the speech was that Great Britain may seek co-operation of the United States in event of an Anglo-French break upon the Ruhr issue.

Washington, June 18.—The State Department declined to comment today on reports from London that Great Britain was "sounding out" the United States with respect to possible American arbitration in the reparations dispute.

In diplomatic circles, however, the reports were generally credited, for it is known that for the last six months there have been constant interchanges of views between London and Washington on the reparations controversy.

The American government heretofore has resolutely set its face against any proposals looking to American mediation in the Ruhr. This policy was necessitated, officials said, by the "hard boiled" attitude of France.

BULGARIA RAPIDLY BECOMING TRANQUIL AND WAR FEAR OVER

Earlier Reports Declare
Revolutionaries Suppress-
Disorders

London, June 18.—Bulgaria is rapidly becoming tranquil and fears of a new Balkan war arising from the Bulgarian revolution are unfounded, it was announced at the foreign office this afternoon. This information was based upon official advices.

Other dispatches said that Bulgarian revolutionaries were ruthlessly putting down disorders in the interior. A Belgrade dispatch to the Daily Chronicle said:

"The force of the Bulgarian peasant movement is about spent."

"It is reported that Jugo-Slavia is mobilizing reservists and is sending troops to the Macedonian frontier where Comitadjis (Bulgarian irregulars) are said to be active."

Athens advices report the Balkan situation quiet.

According to a dispatch to the Daily Express, the Bulgarian revolutionary leaders have found evidence that former Premier Alexander Stamboulliski plotted to usurp the Bulgarian throne.

TURKISH TRANSPORT SEIZED BY BRITISH

London, June 18.—A British destroyer has seized a Turkish transport in the sea of Marmara carrying guns to Thrace, said a news agency dispatch from Constantinople this afternoon.

WILL RUN CARS EVERY HALF HOUR

Announcement that the Dayton, Springfield and Xenia Southern Railway Company will run cars every half hour between Xenia and Dayton shortly has been made by John Simpson, Xenia passenger agent.

The increased service schedule was made possible by the purchase of four new interurban cars of latest design, two of which are now in operation. The other two new cars will be put in operation soon on the line so that half hour service may be maintained, it is announced. The new cars, which have been attracting attention since put in operation recently, were purchased at a cost of $60,000 in order to give the increased service.

For the convenience of Xenia people employed in Dayton, the company will operate an extra car that will leave Xenia at 4:30 o'clock each morning to run on a 45-minute schedule to Dayton, arriving there at 5:15 o'clock Xenia time or 6:15 o'clock Dayton time giving ample time for passengers to reach places of employment. RINK TO BE SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION

It is expected that the old Casino Rink East Third Street, for 37 years a Xenia landmark, will change hands and possibly pass altogether June 30, when the present owner, H. T. Confer, places the building on the block at public auction.

The Rink was originally built for skating purposes and was the nucleus for local pleasure seekers for years during the flare for roller skating. Because of its large proportions it has also been the only building available in the city for big indoor affairs and bazaars and in this capacity has at ways been prominently used.

For years it has also been the seat of many basketball contests, the Central High five using the building for this purpose or many years until the erection of the new high school building. Independent teams have been keeping the rink occupied almost nightly during the season and two bazaars were held there recently.

Mr. Confer has owned the rink for several years, leasing it for various events. He is now advertising it to be sold at public auction June 30.

NEW ATTITUDE OF ASIATICS HELD AS THREAT TO WHITE RACE.

Even more than European nations, America has every right to protect herself against any possible Asiatic domination of the Pacific. Her long Western seaboard and possessions insure to her many millions of trade with the Far East at reasonably remunerative rates, from the ocean-carrying point of view. Added to this, she has enormous financial interests and concessions in China and a very large share of the passenger traffic from North America to Japanese ports, as well as to Shanghai and Hongkong. While Japan was an ally of Great Britain there was but little potential danger to the American flag in the Pacific, but since the Washington conference the situation has entirely altered, and America, for the first time, finds herself with very serious rivalry to her trade influence.

Personal observation in Japan cannot but convince any visitor that Japan's resentment against the immigration laws of America finds expression in a determination to exclude America from further influence on Asiatic shores. To guard her Asiatic trade route America has kept up strong armed forces, both in Hawaii and in the Philippines. The two places present very different aspects of this problem, in that Japanese settlers in Hawaii already number nearly 56 per cent of the total population, while in the Philippines they are not sufficiently numerous to matter, and the Filipinos would rather submit to American rule than throw their lot with Japan.

The most serious problem in the far East today is not the attitude of Japan toward its neighbors, but that of all Asiatic nations toward all Western ones, and such being the case, no preventive measures on the part of Western nations can be lightly disregarded as adventures too far from home. Whether America or England sustains the first blow, the result would be the same. Civilization as we know it would once more be at stake, and this time not in peril from our blood brothers, but from an Oriental dominion of the world, which could not but result in complete enslavement of all free institutions.

TULLY'S PUNCH AND JUDY SHOW.

Richard Walton Tully has just slipped one over on the high cost of extras in Los Angeles. One of the scenes necessary to the filming of "Trilby" was an outdoor Punch and Judy show surrounded with a crowd of ecstatic children, such a scene as all are familiar with. Instead of hiring a crowd of child screen actors, Tully had the happy inspiration to send to a neighboring school inviting a hundred children from six to twelve years in age to attend a Punch and Judy show at the United Studios. And while the children gleefully watched the performance, the faithful camera ground steadily away, and the spontaneity of the resulting ensemble is even better than if the children had known they were "acting."

VAN DYKE DECRIES "AMERICAN" TONGUE.

Attempts to create a new American language were decied at the opening conference of British and American professors of English at Columbia University by Dr. Henry Van Dyke, of Princeton University, who declared that "the proposal to make a new American language to fit our enormous country may be regarded either as a specimen of American humor or a serious enormity."

"The native language of these United States is English," he said. "Our forefathers and our foremothers helped to make it in the old country, and they brought it with them to this new land in a pretty good condition. English was propagated and kept alive as the hereditary language of this country by vocal use."

"One of the chief dangers to our rich and vivid language today is the slovenly way in which it is spoken, not only in the streets, but also in the pulpit, on the stage and even in the classroom."

"Dialects and local accents, brogue and burr, are the spice of talks; but lazy, unintelligible, cyncopated speech is like a dirty face," he said. "Americans may be the chief offenders in this, but if my memory does not fail me I have heard this year some folks talk in 'Lunnon' who were hard to understand and whose voices were perceptibly nasal, quite as much so as the voices of 'Noo Yawk.'"

Dr. Fred Newton Scott, of the University of Michigan, said that the movement to improve American speech would do much to keep down the old bitterness between England and the United States.

THE SHIP OF STATE IS IN GOOD HANDS.

Henry J. Allen, former Governor of Kansas, is quoted as saying: "It would be a mistake for America to join the League of Nations now, when opinion is divided and judgment confused on the subject."

The people of the United States under the present Administration cannot, and will not, be induced to cast their lot with the nations of Europe until the latter change their selfish policies.

Our present Administration at Washington is as good as the best ever in power. It has and is facing at the present time at home and abroad the most perplexing problems, and it is disloyal and traitorous for any American in the world to add to the number of troublesome matters of national and international importance for it to settle.

Let all good, patriotic citizens of the United States stand by the President and his intelligent Cabinet and uphold their hands in these troubled times. Let us remember that our statesmen are as fully informed upon every international question and occurrence as any statesman in other countries, and advice for Americans from Americans is better for America than any imported advice. The ship of state is in good hands. It has weathered many storms and will ride out the present one to snug harbor.

BUSINESS ISN'T QUITE SO GOOD IN SOME LINES

1903--Twenty Years Ago--1923

A lively breeze which for a time threatened the Cedarville paper mill broke out last night in a new addition to the mill. The fire burned about an hour and the loss is estimated at $1,000.

There was a genuine snow storm at Enon, near Springfield, and for a radius of a mile around that village yesterday afternoon. It started as a hail storm but turned into a real snow and in few minutes the ground was white.

The grounds about the court house are prolific in four leaf clovers. The fact was discovered by some of the school children and the news has spread and now there is a general search going on for this emblem of good luck.

The Neff park at Yellow Springs is booked for picnics every day, nearly for the next month to come. The dancing pavilion is a popular feature of the resort. There are four small crafts for use on the lake and more will be in use when needed.

DON'T FIDGET

It's easy enough to tell a girl to sit at ease, to stand quietly, to talk readily to old or new friends, but it's hard advice to follow. After all, there's something to be said for the old-time schools for girls, before the so-called "higher education" became common. They taught a little drawing—romantic landscapes with mills and running water, or flowers minutely drawn; they taught a little singing and playing, without giving much knowledge of real music; they taught embroidery, which no one wants now; and they taught grace and social ease. Some one has wittily said that they never taught a woman easily, but fidget in company, avoid making new friends because they're self-conscious, or because they're not sure how they should act, so what ever their brilliancy is, they're hopelessly overlooked.

I'd like to see girls have more classes in gymnastics to build them straight and strong, in voice development, so they would speak softly and with proper accent, in social mannerisms, so they would not be self-conscious. That sort of thing can be taught. Our old fashioned finishing schools proved that.

Reader.—The bones you describe are the ends of the collar bones and if you nourish the tissues these angles will disappear. If you are underweight build up as that is the easiest way to round out the figure. If you are normal, massage some olive oil into the throat and chest.

Marian.—The lines that sometimes appear at your early age only show that you are a bit run down. It will be of help to you, however, if you continue to use the cream as it keeps the skin in good condition. At 19, five feet, four inches, you should weigh about 120 pounds.

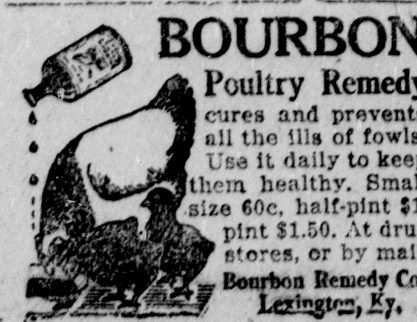

Constant Reader.—When the stomach makes that rumbling sound it will usually stop if you give it a little food or a few sips of water. The cause for the disturbance is nervousness which will have to be cured in order to get rid of the unpleasantness.

anything to say but they did teach her how to say it.

I'd very much like to see some of the old "educational frills" introduced into our public schools. It's not that I want to sacrifice higher mathematics or advanced languages (we all know we don't pay enough attention educationally to other languages), it's only that so many girls leave school able to speak Latin with greater fluency than their own tongues. They're well developed mentally, but tongue-tied socially. They can pass exams

All questions asked by our readers will be answered in this column. Medical and legal subjects are barred. Address all queries to "Information," this paper.

READER—The expression "To make a cat's paw," or tool of a person, has a rather interesting origin which lies in the fable of the monkey who having roasted some chestnuts and finding them too hot to touch caught a cat and holding her fast used one of her paws to take the nuts out of the fire. The expression "Pulling the chestnuts out of the fire" has the same origin.

INTERESTED—You are right. Quite the opposite to our own, the color used to signify mourning in China is white.

SMOKER—According to the reports from men who have studied the subject carefully, there is a good deal less free nicotine in the more expensive, or rather, the finer grades of tobacco. However, other reports claim the contrary, so don't bet either way.

TO A MOTHER LONG GONE

How I miss you, Mother dear! Your gentleness, your beauty of character, your thoughtfulness, your silent understanding that only a mother could own—that love which you pressed into my heart so long ago, all come to me at this moment of longing for you.

I remember how you wrote me a little note and tucked it into the blanket that I took to college with me—and how I didn't discover it until packed that blanket again to come home, four years later.

You understood me as no other human being ever has. You told me that I would meet many who would love me and many whom I would love—but that some would betray me and prove untrue. And you told me that my strength and happiness would always rest upon my own sincerity of heart, and upon remaining true.

In my imperfect way I have tried to carry on—for you.

But sometimes the loneliness of my spirit puts out all the lights and I find myself in silent darkness. And then I recall that the stars and your love are just alike—eternal! Both set in the blue.

I would like folks to know that the good in me, the love of beautiful things, and every great desire, were planted in my heart by you.

I would be great for you. And I know that no greatness could possibly be satisfactory to you that wasn't unselfish.

But, rather than this, I would come to you again in the little brown suit you made for me with the brass buttons on the knees of the trousers—and I would climb into your lap and be buried in your arms and your understanding—warmed anew by the pure gold of your love.

SUNDAY FIRST DAY IN COMMENCEMENT AT WILBERFORCE

Sunday was "A Big Day in Zion" for the first day's exercises in the opening of the Sixtieth Annual Commencement of Wilberforce University. All the services were largely attended and visitors motored to the school from Xenia, Columbus, Dayton, Cincinnati and Springfield. The early morning trains brought many distinguished men from New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Jacksonville, Florida and from the larger cities in the West.

Bishop William Decker Johnson, one of the Bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, in charge of the work in Texas, addressed one hundred and fifty candidates for graduation, when he delivered the baccalaureate sermon, at half past ten o'clock in the auditorium of Galloway Hall.

After the preliminary opening the speaker was introduced by President John A. Gregg. Bishop Johnson selected as his subject "Ready for Service," taken from Isaiah 6:13, "Here am I, send me."

The speaker urged students to prepare themselves for their work in life, pointing out that this is a day of specialization, and that a college training is of inestimable advantage to the youth starting out in life. He stressed the point that everyone should take advantage of time and make his activities count. Special training, he said is necessary to the full realization of a successful life.

There are two classes of people in the world, said the speaker, one that moves with the surface current and the other that is swayed by the deeper tide of divine energy. The latter move with a fixed purpose and are not easily influenced by the passing of time. The speaker addressed to the Religious Societies was delivered by Chaplain O. J. W. Scott U. S. A. who spoke at length on "Self-Determination," impressed the members of the religious organizations of the school the necessity of better preparation to meet the new religious ideas which are being brought to the people by Evolutionists.

Rev. S. B. Jones of Alton, Ill., delivered the Annual Sermon to the candidates for graduation from Payne Theological Seminary, and spoke on "Ministerial Efficiency." The speaker admonished the members of the class to see that the character of the work of the Christian Ministry is strengthened, that by so doing the young people would seek the church in place of the moving pictures on the Sabbath day.

Monday evening the regular rhetorical contest will take place for the Rusk, R. A. Grant and J. A. Gregg prizes.

On Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock the Annual Trustee Board will convene. This meeting is to be presided over by Bishop J. H. Jones, who is its president, but it is very doubtful whether he will be able to attend, having been confined to his bed for the past week with sciatic rheumatism. In case that Bishop Jones does not preside, Bishop W. H. Heard of Philadelphia, the vice-president, will carry out the plans of Bishop Jones.

Wednesday is commencement at which time in the neighborhood of 150 degrees will be granted.

Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, of New York, qualified for one of his own bravery medals in his pursuit and capture of James Lambatta, gunman, who took refuge in a dark hallway and later on the roof of a tenement house, firing continuously. Enright was in his automobile, driven by his chauffeur, Detective Charles Eise, when he heard a fusillade of shots and found one of his detectives in a pistol duel with Lambatta, wanted by the police. Without hesitation, Enright followed the fugitive into a hallway, bullets splintering the wall all about him, and finally cornered him. Lambatta was found to be seriously wounded. Enright, it developed, was not armed.

DRAPER DAUGHERTY ESCAPES FROM SANITARIUM; COURT SEEKS CAPTURE

Major Draper M. Daugherty.

Stamford, Conn., June 18.—Fomal steps will be taken by the local Probate District Court, it was announced today, to secure the return to a sanitarium here of Draper M. Daugherty, son of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, who fled Sunday morning after being picked up by a party in a New York automobile. Daugherty was formally committed for six months on April 25 last after a protracted court hearing.

Daugherty was walking with two attendants outside the sanitarium grounds Sunday morning when an automobile bearing New York license drew up. Daugherty dodged his attendants and leaped into the car which sped away.

"I had stomach trouble so bad almost everything disagreed with me and my sufferings were awful. I often went for three or four days without eating and then for days at a time I couldn't retain anything I did eat. I also had headaches that would continue for several days and cause me such agony I could hardly endure them."

"Well, after trying almost everything, the Tanlac treatment has completely overcome my troubles, and, oh, what relief and happiness I feel! Red Sox Whip C. M. I. A. Team

Thanks to the able hurling of Carl Lewis and some timely snatching on the part of his teammates, the Xenia Red Sox romped away with another victory at Diskerson Park Sunday, defeating the C. M. I. A. Club of Dayton, 7 to 6.

Able base running and some costly misplays put Lewis in hot water at several intervals, but masterful pitching let him out of the tight spots. He fanned 14 of the Dayton batters during the afternoon, proving that he was the most important factor in keeping the visitors subdued.

Carl was nipped for eight safeties during the melee but managed to keep them scattered. The visitors started a southpaw on the mound, but he was hammered from the box early in the game, giving away to Smith, who finished the pastime, after five runs had been garnered off his delivery. The Sox scored first in the third inning when they chased three runs across the plate, and they followed these up with more counters in the fourth and fifth.

The visitors threatened in the sixth when they annexed three markers but the Sox scored three more in their half. This margin was due to nothing in the ninth, when the visitors tied the count. The locals won the contest in their half of the last stanza.

Lewis not only pitched well, but his hitting contributed greatly to the victory also as did that of Ewing. Long topped the attack of the visitors. Next Sunday the Red Sox will play the Dayton White Sox at Diskerson Park.

SHOES REVERSE ORDER

The Xenia Reds, representing the Xenia Shoe Manufacturing Company turned the tables Saturday when they defeated the H. and A. Commercial 7 to 6 at Washington Park.

The victory evened matters for the Shoes, who lost last week to the Blue Hearts. Shaw performed well in the box for the shoemakers but the game was closely played neither pitcher being invincible and the hitting always introducing the element of uncertainty.

Batteries: Shoes—Shaw and Schwab; Commercial—Milburn and Murrell.

The scheduled game between the H. and A. Binders and the Pennsylvania Railroad team had to be called because of intervening darkness. League officials say the game will be finish at the next scheduled meeting of these teams.

FAIRBORN WELL OUTPLAYED

The Red Wings of Dayton won an easy victory from the Fairborn Club at Osborn Sunday by the score of 13 to 5.

The Dayton team did not score until the fourth, with the score three to nothing against them, they garnered seven runs and were never headed. Webber was knocked from the box in favor of Western after the visitors had obtained three more in the sixth.

Sillin pitched well for the ice cream makers, for although he was touched for 12 hits he kept them scattered. The score:

Red Wings 0 0 0 7 0 3 1 2 13 16
Fairborn 1 2 0 0 0 2 0 0 5 12

Batteries—Sillin and Willowett; Webber, Western and Ott.

YELLOW SPRINGS LOSES

Morisette of Harshman and Webb Jones of Yellow Springs battled 12 innings in a pitcher's duel at Yellow Springs Sunday, the Harshman tribe finally winning out 4 to 2.

The contest was bitterly fought and marked by continual wrangling among the players. Ben Conley, with four hits, led the attack for the visitors while Bill Day's all around performance featured for the Greene County team. Jones was hit freely but kept the safeties scattered and was steady in the pinches. Morisette allowed Yellow Springs but five hits. The score:

Y. Springs 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 1 2 5 2

FILIPINO THE FAVORITE

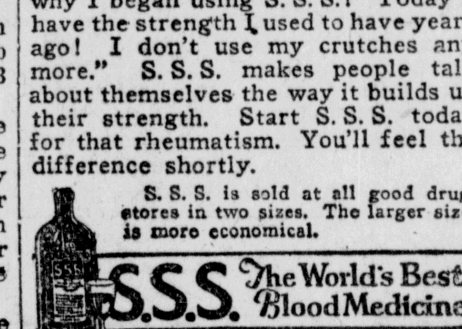

New York, June 18.—Boxing fans have made Challenger Pancho Villa, the Filipino, a 6 to 5 favorite over Champion Jimmy Wilde for the world's flyweight boxing title fight tonight at the Polo grounds. It is an interesting fact, however, that little betting is being done. It would appear that those favoring Villa string along primarily with youth, for Villa is only 21 and exulting in his early manhood. The little gamecock from Wales is 31, 10 years further along on age's trail. Also Villa has been fighting steadily, while Wilde has been out of the ring two and a third years. Outwardly Wilde looks splendid.

Millions and Movies

THROUGH the medium of slender strips of celluloid an actor appears simultaneously on thousands of screens in as many different towns. On the same evening, he entertains great armies of film fans who eagerly pay their money to see his performance.

So the movie star commands a king's ransom for a salary, and a fortune is spent profitably, to provide a proper background for his art. The movie multiplies personality—and earning power.

Advertising does the same thing for a merchant or manufacturer. In a single day it takes his message into thousands of homes—to tell folks why they should have his goods and how to get them. Advertising endows him with a thousand voices with which to tell his story.

GRADUATES TOLD HOW TO BUILD FOR LIFE'S WORK

Graduates of the various departments of the O. S. and S. O. Home were advised to have four principal stones for the foundation of their success in life, by the Rev. B. B. Uhl, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, this city, at the baccalaureate exercises at the Home chapel Sunday morning.

The subject of the Rev. Mr. Uhl's address was "Building for Life," and he pointed out that the main stones needed in the most important part of the structure, the foundation, were: Optimism, Courage, Industry, and Faith. Jesus Christ was spoken of as the foundation of the life building, by the speaker.

Special music by the Home choir completed the program of the baccalaureate exercises. Commencement exercises will be held Wednesday, when seven graduates from the High school, nineteen from the stenography and typewriting department and eleven from the dressmaking and millinery departments, will receive their diplomas.

The class address will be given by Dr. John Davidson, of Ada, Okla. The commencement program will open with a march, "America Life" by the orchestra. The invocation will be given by the Rev. R. E. Brown, of the First Baptist Church, Xenia.

"Song of the Leaves" will be given by the chorus, followed by the recitation of "A Man's a Man," by Margaret M. Brewer. "I Can and I Will" is the subject of a recitation to be given by Sarah S. Braun. Francis W. Phillips will give another oration on "Our Immigration Problem." Another class oration will be given on "The Companionship of Books" by Elva L. Miller. Following a number by a string trio, Edgar C. Turney, will give an oration "A Call from Europe."

The class prophecy will be given by Charlotte L. Keller. "Man, God's Masterpiece" will be the subject of the address of Carl T. Torrence. A number by the girls quartette will precede the class address by Dr. Davidson.

A chorus number "The Vocal Dance" will precede the presentation of diplomas by S. M. Allen, of Washington, C. H.

MT. TABOR

Catania, Italy, July 18—The northeast section of Mt. Etna's crater was in violent eruption today, and a stream of lava destroyed the Castiglione depot.

Several streams of lava burst from the crater on Sunday, accompanied by loud explosions.

Melting streams swept over woods and fields obscuring the railway line. The district about Linguaglossa was menaced.

The Current Events Club, at the last meeting held at the home of Mrs. Harry Whitmer, on West Market Street, last week made 200 gauze pads for the Greene County Red Cross Chapter.

Styles BY LENORE

Through all the shifting tendencies in fashion recently, the two-piece dress consisting of a plain or pleated skirt topped by a jumper blouse, has lost nothing of its old prestige. It is called a "sport dress" and is worn as such. But in dark colors and suitable materials this costume is as suitable in an office as on the tennis courts. And the varied ways in which the blouse may be expressed does away with all monotony for all the staple character of this type of dress.

One of the newest ideas introduced by one of the smart New York shops is the slim straight jumper of eyelet embroidery. In white, with a skirt of eponge, it makes a delightful country frock.

There is also a good word to be said for the sleeveless jumper, which is not new but still fashionable and exceedingly practical both as an office dress and for country wear. When worn to work during "dog days" it provides for refreshing changes of the blouse, and for country wear permits greater latitude in the choice of color, as a bright green of red frock is more apt to be becoming when the color is softened against the face by a cool white blouse.

Such is the theory of the model shown today. The skirt and jumper are of red roshanara crape, the blouse of Swiss muslin dotted in red. In Dutch blue or light brown linen, with an all white blouse of dotted Swiss, what can be cooler, more charming and at the same time business-like, for a workday frock?

fresh salmon. Put this slice into boiling water with two teaspoons each of vinegar and salt. Let simmer for 30 minutes, or until the fish is soft. Then remove it to a serving dish and pour over it the following dressing: Boil one-half cup of vinegar with a tiny piece of bay leaf and two whole cloves for five minutes, and turn this hot vinegar over the fish at once. Let the dish cool, then chill it. Serve garnished with lemon, beets and pickles. (This is an excellent dish to serve when the housekeeper must be away till almost dinner-time, for it may be prepared early in the day and kept in the icechest till night.)

WILBERFORCE

Bishop William Decker Johnson, of the A. M. E. Church, addressed 100 candidates for degrees and Wilberforce University Sunday in the annual baccalaureate services in Gallo-way Hall. In part he spoke as follows: "Although little is known of the details of Isaiah's life yet the evangelist prophet, not only because of his Messianic predictions and the prophecy of the gathering of the Gentiles, but on account of the tone of his writings, which remind us of the Gospel in its earnest pleadings with sinners in its broad promises of free forgiveness, and its sublime pathos.

"There are quite a number of people who think themselves ready for service, ready for almost any emergency, when, in fact, they are utterly unable to fulfill the most common duties of life. To go to work only partially equipped and then expect to succeed, is about as foolish as to hope to hit the target with a gun that has never been loaded. There are thousands of men and women, who possess fine brains and good health, but who can never get above a certain grade in their work, because they lack special training. They are like diamonds in the rough, of superb intrinsic value, which can be brought out by grinding and polishing, but are practically worthless while they are in the rough.

"The time has gone by when the versatile man, the man who can do many things indifferently, but no one thing particularly well, can succeed. Today is the day of the specialist, and youth who is going out into the world to fight its battles will find that there is nothing like a good sound education and training for his life work.

How gratifying, therefore, to see young men and women, no matter how poor, manage to go to some college or to get some higher training, hoping thereby to enlarge their life assets, to discover hidden ability of which they may be ignorant. How pleasing to see them take special courses, expecting to get some hint which will help them to make themselves larger and better fitted to win success. "Prepare, prepare, prepare."—that is my advice to young people of today.

"After you have gone out into the world to wrestle with its perplexities, and difficulties, few if any of those whom you meet will care whether you graduated from Wilberforce, Tuskegee, Howard, Fisk or Morris-Brown. But everybody will care whether you are a real force among men, that is, trained, disciplined force.

"Some one has said, 'Knowledge is Power.' But this is only a half truth, and some one has suggested that a half truth is akin to a lie. Knowledge is power, but not until it is applied; it mounts, but but little until it is used in service to someone else.

"It is said by those who have ventured into the Arctic seas, that it is a common thing to see a huge iceberg moving in a direction contrary to that of the wind or the current. Too secret is, that its immense bulk reaches down to an undercurrent which propels it on its way independent of what takes place on the surface. The smaller objects floating on the water travel with the surface movements, but the large body obeys the deeper more powerful force. This suggests that we have two classes of people in the world, those who are controlled by the surface currents and those who are anchored in the mighty undercurrents of divine energy. The one class is short sighted, and cannot see afar off; the other has a spiritual vision, not limited by the things of sight and sense. The one is uncertain and unstable, not knowing what course to pursue; the other has a straight course marked out with chart and compass to guide.

The one is disturbed by doubts and fears; the other has a mind at ease through an unshaken faith and a settled life policy. The one is ever at the mercy of circumstances so far as faith and hope are concerned; the other moves on, confident, with eyes riveted on the star of Hope and Assurance, because it moves as God moves—toward the same ultimate goal.

"First of all, remember that life is serious; that it means something to live, and that you live this life but once. Every tick of the clock tells you that another second of your life you have come and gone. Seconds are lost in minutes, minutes in hours, hours in days, days in weeks, weeks in months, until one by one we tear the tabs off the monthly calendar, and finally the years have come and gone and your life is past. But few men can think what life is until it is ebbing away and then the sun of life is sinking behind the western hills of time.

"I have set before you your duties. May God give you grace to perform them. To live that we can fix our eyes on you with beams of hope and joy. May you walk in the steps of the Holy Saviour and through his grace fulfill the great Mission that awaits you. By earnest purpose, by self-conflict, by watching and prayer, by faith in the Christian promises, by those heavenly aids and illuminations which he that seeketh shall find, you may all unite yourselves in living bonds to your Master, Jesus Christ—may love as He loved, may act from his principles, may suffer with His constancy, may enter into His purposes, may sympathize with his self-devotion to the cause of God and the race, and by likeness of spirit, may prepare yourselves to meet him as your everlasting friend."

THE MISFIT By Jane Phelps

HORACE'S ULTIMATUM

Chapter XXIV

Frightened, perhaps more than she had been at the burglar, Natalie shut herself in her room. She shuddered as she thought of Horace's face when he looked at her after her insulting speech. Yet, after all, she had said no more than Mrs. Crandell said to her. Her door open, Natalie listened.

Horace ordered the butler to help him search the house.

"He must have hidden somewhere in the house after he left my wife's room, waiting his chance while we were at dinner," he said.

Natalie smiled. He believed her at last. Yet she dared not go to him, dared only to sit and wait. Mrs. Crandell's cries had stopped, but there was a good deal of noise, opening and shutting of doors, Horace, with a police officer came to her.

"You heard nothing while we were at dinner, Natalie?" Horace asked sternly. Then explained his wife had been frightened and had had her dinner served in her room.

"The fellow must have hid himself in the shadows or gone up another flight, then when you had gone down, ransacked the rooms," the officer said. "Too bad you didn't believe your wife, you'd have caught the fellow."

Horace flushed at the officer's tone, but Natalie repressed a smile. Horace had not believed her, had believed his mother instead, and because she had said so, had thought her hysterical. Well, for once she had an opportunity to crow over them. She had no sympathy for Mrs. Crandell's loss, no sympathy for her. It might have been prevented had they treated her differently.

The officer asked her a few questions, but as she had not seen the man's face she could tell him little. They soon left her, Horace, with the same stern, set face, he had when she spoke to his mother.

An hour later, when all had been done that could be in the matter, at least for that night, Horace approached her.

"Natalie, I wish you to go and apologize to Mother at once."

"What for?"

"For your insulting speech when she was in such distress. His voice was hard and stern.

"Is she willing to apologize to me?" She said the same thing—used the same words to me, and in addition implied that I was a liar."

Horace grew white.

"Have you forgotten you are speaking of my mother?"

"No one could ever forget that in this house," Natalie was fast losing control of herself, partly through fear of the look on her husband's face.

"Are you going to apologize to Mother?"

"Not unless she apologizes to me first. She offended first, so that's only fair."

"You mean to defy me, insult my mother?"

"Yes, if you call it that. I am your wife, and surely a wife has her dignity to support as well as a mother. When Mrs. Crandell tells me she is sorry she doubted my word, spoke as she did to me, then I'll apologize as she did to me. The unholy joy Natalie had felt before again flooded her. She was almost enjoying herself. She had asserted herself. And for once Mrs. Crandell had been wrong.

Natalie did not stop to think of what might follow such a declaration of independence, of the hurt she was inflicting upon Horace. Had she, it is doubtful if it would have changed her attitude. He, too quickly, had accepted his mother's explanation of her excitement; he too had doubted her word. Sternly he asked:

"For the last time, Natalie, will you apologize to Mother?"

"For the last time, Horace, when she asks my pardon first." This time Natalie's voice was a little tremulous. (She never had seen Horace look so.)

"Until you change your mind we are strangers," he replied in a harsh voice, which with evident repression he kept low.

"What do you mean—strangers?" "Just what I say. I shall have nothing to say to you until you apologize to my mother."

He turned and quickly left the room.

JEWETT SIX PAIGE BUILT

Mother—"Dear me, I wonder if it will be raining at the lake today?" Father—"Never mind, dear, we can put up the windows in a jiffy." Frank—"Yes, and we are sure to get through with a Jewett."

This Year-Round Jewett Pleases All the Family Comfort That Defies Weather—Performance To Be Proud Of

Jewett Sedan is breezy and cool on hot days. All side windows lower, as illustrated. You enjoy all the "openness" of a touring car. In the dusty stretch or sudden storm, raise the windows and you are just as snug and clean as at home. Lock the doors and luggage is safe.

When Jack Frost comes, this Jewett Sedan is doubly prized by all the family. With windows closed tight—they do close tight—you are comfortable on the bitterest days. You will go out often, keep in closer touch with your friends, really use your car.

But Jewett Sedan gives more than weather comfort. With the longest springs of any car its size—and costly, deep seat cushions—it defies rough roads. Its rugged construction—Jewett is 200 pounds heavier than comparable cars—gives big car riding ease. It is finished, fitted and built to please and endure. Slam the doors. The sound bespeaks substantial worth.

RUHR BLOCKADE MADE OBSOLETE BY THE FRENCH

Cuno Government Faced
With Labor Wage Revolt
of Serious Nature

Berlin, June 18.—With the French occupation of Essen-Dortmund main railway line completed, the whole occupied area is now severed from the rest of Germany.

Factories that had been employing thousands will be shutting down this week. The food situation is the most critical since the French took over the Essen line. The Germans are charging openly that General De Goutte is starving into surrender the people he has been unable to bend to his will by other methods.

A general strike of all workmen in Germany is being urged by the radical unionists following the mob demonstrations in Brandenburg, and extra police precautions are being taken in all industrial centers.

Radical leaders are sending out propaganda and agents to all work centers in Germany in an effort to spread the strike. This action is not considered as a protest against the Ruhr occupation so much as a demonstration against capital.

In Mulheim the miners went out on strike and the homes of several mine directors were looted by the mobs. Some of the men went back to their jobs when their demands were met by the industrial chiefs. At Brandenburg there was much firing, but no casualties were reported. The city is quiet.

The Cuno government today is faced with a labor wage revolt which threatens to get beyond control of the trade union leaders. The latter have just sent a warning to Chancellor Cuno, which is a repetition of the warning of June 2 which remained unanswered.

Labor wants a sweeping readjustment of wage scales, insisting that the American dollar or the gold mark be set up as a basis.

Germany today is a country where every workman is a millionaire but the more millions he gets the less he can buy for his paper marks because prices keep pace with the rise in the value of the dollar. Saving is useless for the same reason.

German masses are living from hand to mouth. This is gradually undermining the morale of the people.

Sporadic strikes are breaking out everywhere with the rank and file ignoring the veterans leaders. Meanwhile the Reds are active, enlisting recruits among the discontented and rebellious ranks of the unions. The present week finds the government in a critical position while awaiting a decisive answer to the latest reparations note addressed to the entente. Internal labor storms are brewing which may easily develop into a general strike. But the trade union treasuries are depleted and it would be impossible to give relief doles if a general strike broke out.

ENGLAND REJECTS HUGHES' DRY SHIP PLAN IN ENTIRETY

Semi-Official
Announcement

London, June 18.—Semi-official announcement was made this afternoon that Great Britain has decided Secretly that Great Britain has decided Secretly of the "dry ship" controversy is not acceptable.

Washington submitted the draft of a convention under which the United States would be entitled to search suspected liquor smuggling vessels within a 12 mile limit off the American coast. In return, foreign ships were to be allowed to take liquor into American ports if sealed.

The convention pointed out that the three-mile limit recognized by international law, should remain effective in all matters except in cases where ships were suspected of liquor smuggling. Copies of the draft were sent to France, Italy, Spain and Japan as well as England.

UNCONFIRMED REPORT SAYS COMMUNITY OF 13,000 WIPED OUT

Volcano Sending Forth Stream of Molten Lava Which
Destroys Everything In Its Path—Troops Dis-
patched to Scene of Trouble to Aid Refugees

London, June 18.—An unconfirmed report reached Rome from Naples this afternoon that Linguaglossa, a community of 13,000 souls, has been totally destroyed by molten lava from Mount Etna, said an Exchange Telegram dispatch from Rome this evening. A portion of Cerro was said to have been wiped out also. The flow of lava continues.

An Exchange Telegram dispatch said that a fifth fissure had opened up in the crater and a stream of lava was soon belching forth to reinforce the flaming river already flowing down the mountain side.

Troops were dispatched in the direction of Linguaglossa with motor cars to aid the people in their flight. Up to the time the Exchange Telegram dispatch had been filed in Rome no loss of life had been reported nor had official confirmation been received that Linguaglossa was destroyed.

Advices from Catania described pitiful scenes in the region of the volcano, especially in Linguaglossa where terror stricken women, clasping babies in their arms, rushed into churches to pray for safety.

The fascisti are aiding in the rescue work and government funds have been placed at the disposal of the refugees.

LIGHT VOTE IN MINNESOTA IS CAST ON MONDAY

Political Heads in Washington Interested In
Outcome

Minneapolis, Minn., June 18.—In spite of intensive campaigns for several weeks by 14 candidates in three parties for party nominations for United States senator, voting today in Minnesota's state wide primary was light, with one of the smallest total votes ever recorded in a primary election in the state expected. The Republican, Farmer-Labor and Democratic parties are each to choose one candidate today to contest July 13 for the unexpired senatorial term of the late Knute Nelson.

The hottest fight in the Republican primary, were nine candidates, including Governor Preus, State Supreme Justice Hallum, Congressman Anderson and Schall and ex-Congressman Steenerson and Lunden are running.

The rank and file of the Republican party, judging from the light vote, appears to be willing to wait for the election before turning out a vote. The light vote is believed to favor Governor Preus.

Washington, June 18.—Political leaders of every shade of opinion in Washington had their ears cocked to the Northwest today, where Minnesota is witnessing a battle royal for the Senate seat, left vacant by the death of the venerable Knute Nelson.

The result in the Gopher state primary today is expected to afford an illuminating insight into the political temper of the grain belt and the political map makers of the capital will chart their respective courses for 1924 with an eye on what is revealed in today's primary and next month's election.

OX-CART PIONEER RIDES IN AIRPLANE

Warren J. Lincoln, horticulturist of Aurora, Illinois, whose presumed murder has been sought all over the United States following his disappearance and the finding of blood-stained Indian clubs, has returned to the little town, telling a weird story of being kidnapped in a plot engineered by his estranged wife. The sheriff, doubting the story, has dropped the case.

The clouds was a novel experience. According to R. L. Clohecy, who piloted the plane in which Mrs. Freeman flew in a few hours over cities which once were rolling plains, taking days to traverse, she acted "like a regular veteran."

Mrs. Anna McGinnis, of Chicago, and her sister, Myna Ploch are on trial there, with two "sheik" friends, charged with the murder of Michael McGinnis, a city fireman and Anna's husband. Myna Ploch asserted she shot McGinnis when he attempted to snatch a breakfast cap from her sister's head so that a man friend who was with him might try to identify her as a "curly haired vamp" he knew.

FORD DECLARES HE IS NOT CANDIDATE

Springfield, Mass., June 18.—Henry Ford will not be a candidate for the presidency in 1924. The Detroit manufacturer so declared just before leaving the city today. Ford had conducted a three day search in western Massachusetts towns for additions to his collection of antiques.

"I have no desire to be president of the United States," he said. "I am too much occupied with my own affairs to become the next president and I do not intend to run."

NEW ARMAMENT CONTEST IS ON IT IS BELIEVED

Great Britain's Giant
Submarine Secretly
Launched

London, June 18.—Great Britain's "mystery ship," the giant submarine X-1, is featured in all the London newspapers, the consensus being that this vessel sets all foreign powers guessing.

All England is discussing the new "monster of the deep," which is 1,400 tons larger than the largest German U-boat, the U-142, and has a total displacement of 3,600 tons. It was launched at Chatham.

The X-1 was laid down 10 days before the Washington arms conference, at which England agreed not to build submarines carrying guns larger than 8 inches. The X-1 is said to carry a 13.5-inch rifle.

It has a cruising radius of about 6,000 miles, which is considerably superior to that of the German undersea cruiser, the Deutschland, which visited America during the war. It is propelled by electricity when submerged, and by steam on the surface.

This battleship of the sub-surface will cost about $4,000,000 when completed, and is capable of operating with the battle fleet on the surface or submerged, and also of operating alone over a wide area and away from her base.

Upon the results of tests of the X-1, British and foreign naval engineers believe the future of war vessel construction will depend. There is a possibility, it was pointed out, that the present surface type of dreadnaught, cruiser, scout and destroyer might give way to boats capable of operating submerged. The X-1 will be equipped with radio of wide range.

The Daily Herald sees a new armaments contest in the launching of the super-submarine. It says: "In spite of the Washington conference the world is on the eve of a new era of ruinous competition in naval armaments. The giant submarine X-1, launched with great secrecy, is the first of a new type of warship unaffected by the Washington restrictions. Like the dreadnaught in 1905, she will compel the building of new fleets at a fantastic expense by every great power. Then, jealousies and suspicions engendered by the rivalry may bring about a new war. As a cruiser she could prey at will on merchantmen, and nothing but a battleship could catch her, while the moment a battleship appeared anywhere in the neighborhood the X-1 would become a submarine and disappear. Similarly she would evade aircraft."

SHOOTS GIRL WIFE, THEN SUICIDES

Hagerstown, Md., June 17.—Concealed in a clump of bushes along a roadside, Roy Smith, 29, of Woodsboro, Md., today shot and killed his 19-year-old wife, seriously wounded her father two sisters and another girl, and then committed suicide, according to the police.

The boy had been separated from his wife for a week. He lay in waiting for the party accompanying Rev. J. A. Saxton in a carriage and opened fire as they approached. The minister's 11-year-old daughter was wounded.

Smith then ran to a wheatfield where he sent a bullet through his brain.

Professor Eubank escaped injury, but minor injuries were suffered by his three small daughters.

REBUKE HANDED RAIL FIRM FOR DISOBEDIENCE

Board Charges P. R. R. Refused to Treat With
Its Employees

Chicago, June 18.—The United States railroad labor board, for the first time, exercised its power to administer a public rebuke to a railroad company for failure to obey its decision.

It is the only means the board has of penalizing either companies or labor unions for failing to comply with its decision.

The Pennsylvania railroad is the company held up to public rebuke. The case grew out of the shopmen's strike.

The Pennsylvania was ordered to treat with employees in the matter of wages and working conditions with representatives selected by the employees. Instead, it is charged, the company caused to be circulated ballots among the employees with the names of certain individuals printed as candidates for representatives of the employees. The labor board refused to recognize representatives selected in this way. The Pennsylvania was ordered to employ the usual form in treating with its employees and refused.

The rebuke of the labor board says in part:

"The course adopted by the Pennsylvania system in this matter is indefensible from every viewpoint. It can not be justified on the ground that the contention of the employees or the decision of the board deprived the carrier of the right to deal with its own employees. The plan called 'employee representation,' which the Pennsylvania system assumes to have originated, is guaranteed in the transportation act of 1920 and prevails on the railroads throughout the United States.

"If employee representation means anything at all, it signifies the right of a class of employees, through majority action, to select their own representatives to negotiate with the carrier agreements covering wages and working conditions. This is what congress said it meant, but the shop crafts have so far been deprived of this plain, simple, indisputable right on the Pennsylvania system.

"The railroad labor board, under the authority of section 313 of the transportation act of 1920, finds that the Pennsylvania system has violated decision No. 218 after the supreme court had upheld the board's right to render said decision, and has thereby denied to its employees essential rights as laboring men, to which congress had declared them entitled."

PILOTS ARE SELECTED TO TEST BOMBER

Lieutenants Leigh Wade and Harold R. Harris of Wilbur Wright Field, Fairfield, have been selected by the war department as pilots of the new "two-and-one-half" plane." Barling Bomber on its test trip at that flying field.

The ship is the largest flying machine ever built, measuring 130 feet from tip to tip, weighing 40,000 pounds and being powered with six Liberty motors. The ship has a flying speed of not less than 90 miles an hour. The gasoline capacity is 2,000 gallons and 181 gallons of oil and a minimum operating crew of four will be required. The ship will carry 2,000 pounds of bombs at a time. The ship has a 12 hour speed flight capacity and will carry seven guns.

WANT AMERICA AS ARBITRATOR OF RUHR ISSUE

Great Britain Reported to
Have Sounded Out U. S.
On Project

OFFICIALS SILENT

Diplomatic Circles, However, Generally Credit
Rumor as Authentic

London, June 18.—Persistent reports were current here this afternoon that Great Britain has informally sounded Washington as to whether the United States would be willing to act as arbitrator in the Ruhr reparations crisis.

While the origin of these reports was not determined, they are believed to have arisen from Premier Stanley Baldwin's speech Saturday when he said the whole world was looking to Great Britain and America for salvation.

Another interpretation placed upon the speech was that Great Britain may seek co-operation of the United States in event of an Anglo-French break upon the Ruhr issue.

Washington, June 18.—The State Department declined to comment today on reports from London that Great Britain was "sounding out" the United States with respect to possible American arbitration in the reparations dispute.

In diplomatic circles, however, the reports were generally credited, for it is known that for the last six months there have been constant interchanges of views between London and Washington on the reparations controversy.

The American government heretofore has resolutely set its face against any proposals looking to American mediation in the Ruhr. This policy was necessitated, officials said, by the "hard boiled" attitude of France.

BULGARIA RAPIDLY BECOMING TRANQUIL AND WAR FEAR OVER

Earlier Reports Declare
Revolutionaries Suppress-
Disorders

London, June 18.—Bulgaria is rapidly becoming tranquil and fears of a new Balkan war arising from the Bulgarian revolution are unfounded, it was announced at the foreign office this afternoon. This information was based upon official advices.

Other dispatches said that Bulgarian revolutionaries were ruthlessly putting down disorders in the interior. A Belgrade dispatch to the Daily Chronicle said:

"The force of the Bulgarian peasant movement is about spent."

It is reported that Jugo-Slavia is mobilizing reservists and is sending troops to the Macedonian frontier where Comitadjis (Bulgarian irregulars) are said to be active."

Athens advices report the Balkan situation quiet.

According to a dispatch to the Daily Express, the Bulgarian revolutionary leaders have found evidence that former Premier Alexander Stamboulsky plotted to usurp the Bulgarian throne.

RINK TO BE SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION

It is expected that the old Casino Rink East Third Street, for 37 years a Xenia landmark, will change hands and possibly pass altogether June 30, when the present owner, H. T. Confor, places the building on the block at public auction.

The Rink was originally built for skating purposes and was the mecca for local pleasure seekers for years during the flare for roller skating. Because of its large proportions it has also been the only building available in the city for big indoor affairs and bazaars and in this capacity has at ways been prominently used.

For years it has also been the seat of many basketball contests, the Central High five using the building for this purpose or many years until the erection of the new high school building. Independent teams have been keeping the rink occupied almost nightly during the season and two bazaars were held there recently.

Mr. Confor has owned the rink for several years, leasing it for various events. He is now advertising it to be sold at public auction June 30.

NEW ATTITUDE OF ASIATICS HELD AS THREAT TO WHITE RACE.

Even more than European nations, America has every right to protect herself against any possible Asiatic domination of the Pacific. Her long Western seaboard and possessions insure to her many millions of trade with the Far East at reasonably remunerative rates, from the ocean-carrying point of view. Added to this, she has enormous financial interests and concessions in China and a very large share of the passenger traffic from North America to Japanese ports, as well as to Shanghai and Hongkong. While Japan was an ally of Great Britain there was but little potential danger to the American flag in the Pacific, but since the Washington conference the situation has entirely altered, and America, for the first time, finds herself with very serious rivalry to her trade influence.

Personal observation in Japan cannot but convince any visitor that Japan's resentment against the immigration laws of America finds expression in a determination to exclude America from further influence on Asiatic shores. To guard her Asiatic trade route America has kept up strong armed forces, both in Hawaii and in the Philippines. The two places present very different aspects of this problem, in that Japanese settlers in Hawaii already number nearly 56 per cent of the total population, while in the Philippines they are not sufficiently numerous to matter, and the Filipinos would rather submit to American rule than throw their lot with Japan.

The most serious problem in the far East today is not the attitude of Japan toward its neighbors, but that of all Asiatic nations toward all Western ones, and such being the case, no preventive measures on the part of Western nations can be lightly disregarded as adventures too far from home. Whether America or England sustains the first blow, the result would be the same. Civilization as we know it would once more be at stake, and this time not in peril from our blood brothers, but from an Oriental dominion of the world, which could not but result in complete enslavement of all free institutions.

TULLY'S PUNCH AND JUDY SHOW.

Richard Walton Tully has just slipped one over on the high cost of extras in Los Angeles. One of the scenes necessary to the filming of "Trilby" was an outdoor Punch and Judy show surrounded with a crowd of ecstatic children, such a scene as all are familiar with. Instead of hiring a crowd of child screen actors, Tully had the happy inspiration to send to a neighboring school inviting a hundred children from six to twelve years in age to attend a Punch and Judy show at the United Studios. And while the children gleefully watched the performance, the faithful camera ground steadily away, and the spontaneity of the resulting ensemble is even better than if the children had known they were "acting."

VAN DYKE DECRIES "AMERICAN" TONGUE.

Attempts to create a new American language were decied at the opening conference of British and American professors of English at Columbia University by Dr. Henry Van Dyke, of Princeton University, who declared that "the proposal to make a new American language to fit our enormous country may be regarded either as a specimen of American humor or a serious enormity."

"The native language of these United States is English," he said. "Our forefathers and our foremothers helped to make it in the old country, and they brought it with them to this new land in a pretty good condition. English was propagated and kept alive as the hereditary language of this country by vocal use."

"One of the chief dangers to our rich and vivid language today is the slovenly way in which it is spoken, not only in the streets, but also in the pulpit, on the stage and even in the classroom."

"Dialects and local accents, brogue and burr, are the spice of talks; but lazy, unintelligible, cyncopated speech is like a dirty face," he said. "Americans may be the chief offenders in this, but if my memory does not fail me I have heard this year some folks talk in 'Lunnon' who were hard to understand and whose voices were preceptibly nasal, quite as much so as the voices of 'Noo Yawk.'"

Dr. Fred Newton Scott, of the University of Michigan, said that the movement to improve American speech would do much to keep down the old bitterness between England and the United States.

THE SHIP OF STATE IS IN GOOD HANDS.

Henry J. Allen, former Governor of Kansas, is quoted as saying: "It would be a mistake for America to join the League of Nations now, when opinion is divided and judgment confused on the subject."

The people of the United States under the present Administration cannot, and will not, be induced to cast their lot with the nations of Europe until the latter change their selfish policies.

Our present Administration at Washington is as good as the best ever in power. It has and is facing at the present time at home and abroad the most perplexing problems, and it is disloyal and traitorous for any American in the world to add to the number of troublesome matters of national and international importance for it to settle.

Let all good, patriotic citizens of the United States stand by the President and his intelligent Cabinet and uphold their hands in these troubled times. Let us remember that our statesmen are as fully informed upon every international question and occurrence as any statesman in other countries, and advice for Americans from Americans is better for America than any imported advice. The ship of state is in good hands. It has weathered many storms and will ride out the present one to snug harbor.

BUSINESS ISN'T QUITE SO GOOD IN SOME LINES

1903--Twenty Years Ago--1923

A lively breeze which for a time threatened the Cedarville paper mill broke out last night in a new addition to the mill. The fire burned about an hour and the loss is estimated at $1,000.

There was a genuine snow storm at Enon, near Springfield, and for a radius of a mile around that village yesterday afternoon. It started as a hail storm but turned into a real snow and in few minutes the ground was white.

The grounds about the court house are prolific in four leaf clovers. The fact was discovered by some of the school children and the news has spread and now there is a general search going on for this emblem of good luck.

The Neff park at Yellow Springs is booked for picnics every day nearly for the next month to come. The dancing pavilion is a popular feature of the resort. There are four small crafts for use on the lake and more will be in use when needed.

DON'T FIDGET

It's easy enough to tell a girl to sit at ease, to stand quietly, to talk readily to old or new friends, but it's hard advice to follow. After all, there's something to be said for the old-time schools for girls, before the so-called "higher education" became common. They taught a little drawing—romantic landscapes with mills and running water, or flowers minutely drawn; they taught a little singing and playing, without giving much knowledge of real music; they taught embroidery, which no one wants nowadays and fine sewing which no one has time to do, and they taught grace and social ease. Some one has wittily said that they never taught a woman easily, but fidget in company, avoid making new friends because they're self-conscious, or because they're not sure how they should act, so what ever their brilliancy is, they're hopelessly overlooked.

I'd like to see girls have more classes in gymnastics to build them straight and strong, in voice development, so they would speak softly and with proper accent, in social manners, so they would not be self-conscious. That sort of thing can be taught. Our old fashioned finishing schools proved that.

anything to say but they did teach her how to say it.

I'd very much like to see some of the old "educational frills" introduced into our public schools. It's not that I want to sacrifice higher mathematics or advanced languages (we all know we don't pay enough attention educationally to other languages), it's only that so many girls leave school able to speak Latin with greater fluency than their own tongues. They're well developed mentally, but tongue-tied socially. They can pass exams

All questions asked by our readers will be answered in this column. Medical and legal subjects are barred. Address all queries to "Information," this paper.

READER.—The expression "To make a cat's paw," or tool of a person, has a rather interesting origin which lies in the fable of the monkey who having roasted some chestnuts and finding them too hot to touch caught a cat and holding her fast used one of her paws to take the nuts out of the fire. The expression "Pulling the chestnuts out of the fire" has the same origin.

INTERESTED.—You are right. Quite the opposite to our own, the color used to signify mourning in China is white.

SMOKER.—According to the reports from men who have studied the subject carefully, there is a good deal less free nicotine in the more expensive, or rather, the finer grades of tobacco. However, other reports claim the contrary, so don't bet either way.

Today's Talk

TO A MOTHER LONG GONE. How I miss you, Mother dear! Your gentleness, your beauty of character, your thoughtfulness, your silent understanding that only a mother could own—that love which you pressed in to my heart so long ago, all come to me at this moment of longing for you.

I remember how you wrote me a little note and tucked it into the blanket that I took to college with me—and how I didn't discover it until home, four years later, as no other human being ever has. You told me that I would meet many who would love me and many whom I would love—but that some would betray me and prove untrue. And you told me that my strength and happiness would always rest upon my own sincerity of heart, and upon remaining true.

In my imperfect way I have tried to carry on—for you. But sometimes the loneliness of my spirit puts out all the lights and I find myself in silent darkness. And then I recall that the stars and your love are just alike—eternal! Both set in the blue.

I would like folks to know that the good in me, the love of beautiful things, and every great desire, were planted in my heart by you. I would be great for you. And I know that no greatness could possibly be satisfactory to you that wasn't unselfish.

But, rather than this, I would come to you again in the little brown suit you made for me with the brass buttons on the knees of the trousers—and I would climb into your lap and be buried in your arms and your understanding—warned anew by the pure gold of your love.

NORMA TALMADGE IN "WITHIN THE LAW"

SUNDAY FIRST DAY IN COMMENCEMENT AT WILBERFORCE

Sunday was "A Big Day in Zion" for the first day's exercises in the opening of the Sixtieth Annual Commencement of Wilberforce University. All the services were largely attended and visitors motored to the school from Xenia, Columbus, Dayton, Cincinnati and Springfield. The early morning trains brought many distinguished men from New York, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Jacksonville, Florida and from the larger cities in the West.

Bishop William Decker Johnson, one of the Bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, in charge of the work in Texas, addressed one hundred and fifty candidates for graduation, when he delivered the baccalaureate sermon, at half past ten o'clock in the auditorium of Galloway Hall.

After the preliminary opening the speaker was introduced by President John A. Gregg. Bishop Johnson selected as his subject "Ready for Service," taken from Isaiah 6:13, "Here am I, send me."

The speaker urged students to prepare themselves for their work in life, pointing out that this is a day of specialization, and that a college training is of inestimable advantage to the youth starting out in life. He stressed the point that everyone should take advantage of time and make his activities count. Special training, he said is necessary to the full realization of a successful life.

There are two classes of people in the world, said the speaker, one that moves with the surface current and the other that is swayed by the deeper tide of divine energy. The latter move with a fixed purpose and are not easily influenced by the world. At 3 o'clock the annual address to the Religious Societies was delivered by Chaplain O. J. W. Scott U. S. A., who spoke at length on "Self-Determination," impressed the members of the religious organizations of the school the necessity of better preparation to meet the new religious ideas which are being brought to the people by Evolutionists.

Rev. S. B. Jones of Alton, Ill., delivered the Annual Sermon to the candidates for graduation from Payne Theological Seminary, and spoke on "Ministerial Effectiveness." The speaker admonished the members of the class to see that the character of the work of the Christian Ministry is strengthened, that by so doing the young people would seek the church in place of the moving pictures on the Sabbath Day.

Monday evening the regular rhetorical contest will take place for the Rusk, R. A. Grant and J. A. Gregg prizes.

On Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock the Annual Trustee Board will convene. This meeting is to be presided over by Bishop J. H. Jones, who is its president, but it is very doubtful whether he will be able to attend, having been confined to his bed for the past week with sciatic rheumatism. In case that Bishop Jones does not preside, Bishop W. H. Heard of Philadelphia, the vice-president, will carry out the plans of Bishop Jones.

Wednesday is commencement at which time in the neighborhood of 150 degrees will be granted.

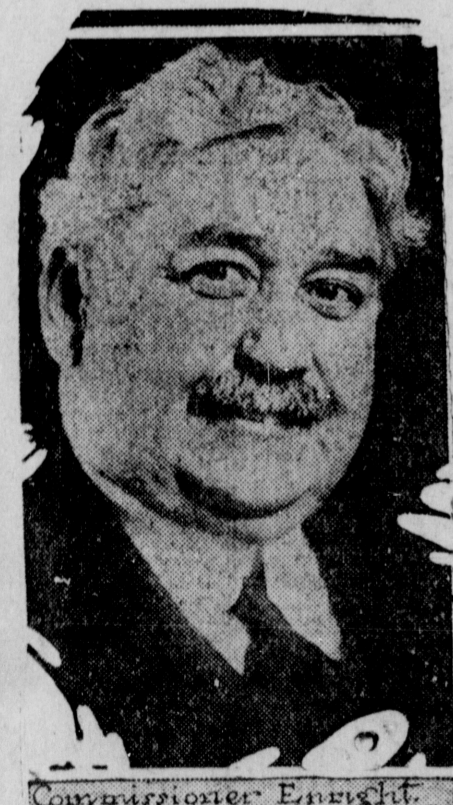

FARMER A SUICIDE

Springfield, O., June 18.—Adam Pink, 66, farmer, living near Pitch, shot and killed himself with a revolver in a field near his home. The body was later discovered by a son. The motive for his act is not known.

INJURIES PROVE FATAL

Chillicothe, O., June 18.—Mrs. H. A. Simpson of Wheeling, W. Va., died of injuries received when an auto in which she and her husband were driving skidded over an embankment near Waverly. Simpson sustained slight injuries.

Police Head Unarmed, Captures Gunman.

Commissioner Enright.

Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, of New York, qualified for one of his own bravery medals in his pursuit and capture of James Lambatta, gunman, who took refuge in a dark hallway and later on the roof of a tenement house, firing continuously. Enright was in his automobile, driven by his chauffeur, Detective Charles Eisle, when he heard a fusillade of shots and found one of his detectives in a pistol duel with Lambatta, wanted by the police. Without hesitation, Enright followed the fugitive into a hallway, bullets splintering the wall all about him, and finally cornered him. Lambatta was found to be seriously wounded. Enright, it developed, was not armed.

DRAPER DAUGHERTY ESCAPES FROM SANITARIUM; COURT SEEKS CAPTURE

Major Draper M. Daugherty.

Stamford, Conn., June 18.—Fomal steps will be taken by the local Probate District Court, it was announced today, to secure the return to a sanitarium here of Draper M. Daugherty, son of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, who fled Sunday morning after being picked up by a party in a New York automobile. Daugherty was formally committed for six months on April 25 last after a probate court hearing.

Daugherty was walking with two attendants outside the sanitarium grounds Sunday morning when an automobile bearing New York license drew up. Daugherty dodged his attendants and leaped into the car which sped away.

SHE CAME NEAR STARVING WITH FOOD ALL ABOUT

"My gratitude to Tanlac is almost beyond words to express for it has relieved me of ten years of constant pain and misery," is the heartfelt statement made recently by Mrs. Mary M. Waschak, 433 Carroll St., Youngstown, Ohio.

"I had stomach trouble so bad almost everything disagreed with me and my sufferings were awful. I often went for three or four days without eating and then for days at a time I couldn't retain anything I did eat. I also had headaches that would continue for several days and cause me such agony I could hardly endure them."

"Well, after trying almost everything, the Tanlac treatment has completely overcome my troubles, and, oh, what relief and happiness I feel! I just eat and enjoy everything and what is even more wonderful, I never have a headache now. Tanlac rendered me the most wonderful service any medicine could when it brought me such splendid health, and I simply can't praise it enough."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere.

The machine is believed to have headed in the direction of New York.

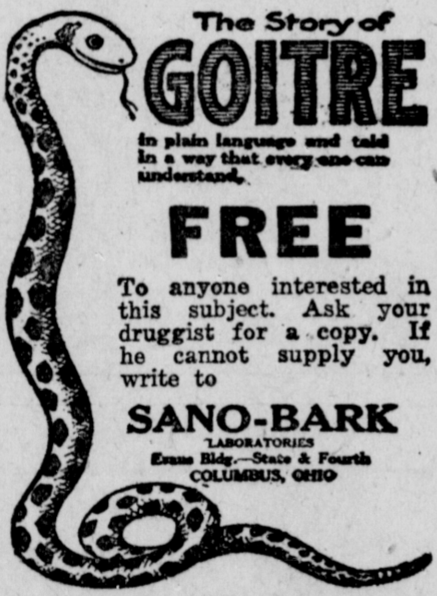

New York, June 18.—That Draper M. Daugherty, whose escape from a sanitarium at Stamford, Conn., has sent an army of private detectives on his trail, has fled to Canada, was the belief of the young attorney's Broadway friends, here today.

M. A. Rainer of Grammercy Square, brother-in-law of Daugherty, has taken charge of the hunt. Rainer, now in Stamford, informed friends here this morning that he had located the auto in which Daugherty fled, a mile from the sanitarium. It is believed Daugherty caught a train toward the Canadian border.

New York police had not been asked to aid in the search. The family according to aRiner, were employing private detectives for that purpose. The driver of the auto in which Daugherty made his escape, is said to be known to authorities.

WOMAN IN RACE

Bellefontaine, O., June 18.—Mrs. Maggie W. Ginn, member of the school board, announced she would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor. Mayor P. P. Newell, Republican, is a candidate for reelection, and Frank J. McCulloch also is in the field.

Red Sox Whip C. M. I. A. Team

Thanks to the able hurling of Carl Lewis and some timely slugging on the part of his teammates, the Xenia Red Sox romped away with another victory at Dickerson Park Sunday, defeating the C. M. I. A. Club of Dayton, 7 to 6.

Able base running and some costly misplays put Lewis in hot water at several intervals, but masterful pitching let him out of the tight spots. He fanned 14 of the Dayton batters during the afternoon, proving that he was the most important factor in keeping the visitors subdued.

Carl was nicked for eight safeties during the melee but managed to keep them scattered. The visitors started a southpaw on the mound, but he was hammered from the first, ock early in the game, giving away to Smith, who finished the pastime, after five runs had been garnered off his delivery. The Sox scored first in the third inning when they chased three runs across the plate, and they followed these up with more counters in the fourth and fifth.

The visitors threatened in the sixth when they annexed three markers but the Sox scored three more in their half. This margin was cut to nothing in the ninth, when the visitors tied the count. The locals won the contest in their half of the last stanza.

Lewis not only pitched well, but his hitting contributed greatly to the victory also as did that of Ewing. Long topped the attack of the visitors. Next Sunday the Red Sox will play the Dayton White Sox at Dickerson Park.

SHOES REVERSE ORDER

The Xenia Sox, representing the Xenia Shoe Manufacturing Company turned the tables Saturday when they defeated the H. and A. Commercial 7 to 6 at Washington Park.

The victory evened matters for the Shoes, who lost last week to the Blue Hearts. Shaw performed well in the box for the shoemakers but the game was closely played neither pitcher being invincible and the hitting always introducing the element of uncertainty.

Batteries: Shoes—Shaw and Schweb; Commercial—Milburn and Murrell.

The scheduled game between the H. and A. Binders and the Pennsylvania Railroad team had to be called because of intervening darkness. League officials say the game will be finish at the next scheduled meeting of these teams.

FAIRBORN WELL OUTPLAYED

The Red Wings of Dayton won an easy victory from the Fairborn Club at Osborn Sunday by the score of 13 to 5.

The Dayton team did not score until the fourth, with the score three to nothing against them. They garnered seven runs and were never headed. Webber was knocked from the box in favor of Western after the visitors had obtained three more in the sixth.

Sillin pitched well for the ice cream makers, for although he was touched for 12 hits he kept them scattered. The score:

Red Wings 0 0 0 7 0 3 1 2 13 16
Fairborn 1 2 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 5 12
Batteries—Sillin and Willows; Webber, Western and Ott.

YELLOW SPRINGS LOSES

Morisette of Harshman and Webb Jones of Yellow Springs battled 12 innings in a pitcher's duel at Yellow Springs Sunday, the Harshman tribe finally winning out 4 to 2.

The contest was bitterly fought and marked by continual wrangling among the players. Ben Confe, with four hits, led the attack for the visitors while Bill Day's all around performance featured for the Greene County team. Jones was hit fairly but kept the safeties scattered and was steady in the pinches. Morisette allowed Yellow Springs but five hits. The score:
Y. Springs 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 1 2 5 2
Batteries—Morisette and Duffy; Jones and Young.

FILIPINO THE FAVORITE

New York, June 18.—Boxing fans have made Challenger Pancho Villa, the Filipino, a 6 to 5 favorite over Champion Jimmy Wilde for the world's flyweight boxing title fight tonight at the Polo grounds. It is an interesting fact, however, that little betting is being done. It would appear that those favoring Villa string along primarily with youth, for Villa is only 21 and exulting in his early manhood. The little gamecock from Wales is 31, 10 years further along on age's trail. Also Villa has been fighting steadily, while Wilde has been out of the ring two and a third years. Outwardly Wilde looks splendid.

"THERE are thousands of you men and women, just like I once was—slaves to rheumatism, muscle pains, joint pains, and horrible stiffness. I had the wrong idea about rheumatism for years. I didn't realize that increasing blood-cells had the effect of completely knocking out rheumatic impurities from the system. That is why I began using S. S. S. Today I have the strength I used to have years ago! I don't use my crutches any more." S. S. S. makes people talk about themselves the way it builds up their strength. Start S. S. REUNITED AFTER 28 YEARS

Alliance, O., June 18.—Mother and son to were reunited in Youngstown after having been separated for 28 years, neither knowing of the whereabouts of the other. Charles Anderson, at the age of 5, was placed in the Fairmont home at Alliance by his mother, who was left a widow through a railroad accident. Two years later he was adopted by another couple.

AUTOMOBILES BURNED

Cleveland, June 18.—Fire fed by a series of explosions, which swept through the service department of the Sterns Motor Sales company, destroyed the plant, together with 35 automobiles, new and used, at an estimated cost of $150,000. The series of explosions came as gasoline in the tanks of several cars exploded, spreading flame to all parts of the building.

Millions and Movies

THROUGH the medium of slender strips of celluloid an actor appears simultaneously on thousands of screens in as many different towns. On the same evening, he entertains great armies of film fans who eagerly pay their money to see his performance.

So the movie star commands a king's ransom for a salary, and a fortune is spent profitably, to provide a proper background for his art. The movie multiplies personality—and earning power.

Advertising does the same thing for a merchant or manufacturer. In a single day it takes his message into thousands of homes—to tell folks why they should have his goods and how to get them. Advertising endows him with a thousand voices with which to tell his story.

But the value of advertising is by no means confined to the advertiser. It has a very definite value to you.

A glance through this paper enables you to sift out the things that interest you. Sitting in your easy chair you can compare values and prices. In a moment you can tell exactly where to go for what you want and how much to pay.

MAYOR CARRIES CITY'S HOPES

Mayor
Cryer

All the hopes and fears of Los Angeles citizens depend on whether Mayor J. C. Cryer is in condition when he meets Mayor H. T. Bacon, of San Diego, for the Mayoralty Marble Championship of Southern California. Both are crack shots, and both have won their way to the top against Mayors of other Coast cities. Mayor Cryer has been photographed while drawing a bead on an "aggie."

URGES COMBINING OF RELIGION AND EDUCATION SUNDAY

Education and religion must be combined the Rev. Irving Maurer, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Columbus told graduates of Antioch College Yellow Springs, in the annual baccalaureate sermon preached Sunday night.

The Rev. Mr. Maurer took for his subject: "Education and Religion." "It is the duty of educated men to see that education and religion are combined to meet the necessity of the world," he said.

The baccalaureate services were held in the College chapel. The ceremonies opened with a processional of graduates, followed by the regular evening service of the church, music being furnished by a quartet of Antioch college men. The quartet was composed of Messrs. Zolg, Tenner, Weston and Hickman.

Final examinations at the College will be held Wednesday and Thursday. The alumni gathering will be held Friday and commencement exercises will be held Saturday when Miss Dora Wells, principal of a Chicago High School will deliver the address.

GRADUATES TOLD HOW TO BUILD FOR LIFE'S WORK

Graduates of the various departments of the O. S. and S. O. Home were advised to have four principal stones for the foundation of their success in life, by the Rev. B. B. Uhl, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, this city, at the baccalaureate exercises at the Home chapel Sunday morning.

The subject of the Rev. Mr. Uhl's address was "Building for Life," and he pointed out that the main stones needed in the most important part of the structure, the foundation, were: Optimism, Courage, Industry, and Faith. Jesus Christ was spoken of as the foundation of the life building, by the speaker.

Special music by the Home choir completed the program of the baccalaureate exercises.

Commencement exercises will be held Wednesday, when seven graduates from the High school, nineteen from the stenography and typewriting department and eleven from the dressmaking and millinery departments, will receive their diplomas.

The class address will be given by Dr. John Davison, of Ada, Ohio. The commencement program will open with a march "America Life" by the orchestra. The invocation will be given by the Rev. R. E. Brown, of the First Baptist Church, Xenia.

"Song of the Leaves" will be given by the chorus, followed by the recitation of "A Man's a Man, for A That," by Margaret M. Brewer. "I Can and I Will" is the subject of a recitation to be given by Sarah S. Braun. Francis W. Phillips will give another oration on "Our Immigration Problem." Another class oration will be given on "The Companionship of Books" by Elva L. Miller. Following a number by a string trio, Edgar C. Turney, will give an oration "A Call from Europe."

The class prophecy will be given by Charlotte L. Keller. "Man, God's Masterpiece" will be the subject of the address of Carl T. Torrence. A number by the girls quartette will precede the class address by Dr. Davison.

A chorus number "The Vocal Dance" will precede the presentation of diplomas by S. M. Allen, of Washington, C. H.

A march "Flag Day" by the orchestra, and the benediction by the Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Xenia, will close the program.

MT. TABOR

Catania, Italy, July 18.—The northeast section of Mt. Etna's crater was in violent eruption today, and a stream of lava destroyed the Castiglione depot.

Several streams of lava burst from the crater on Sunday, accompanied by loud explosions.

Melting streams swept over woods and fields obscuring the railway line.

The district about Linguaglossa was menaced.

SUPPLIES ARE MADE

The Current Events Club, at the last meeting, held at the home of Mrs. Harry Whitmer, on West Market Street, last week made 200 gauze pads for the Greene County Red Cross Chapter.

Styles BY LENORE

Through all the shifting tendencies in fashion recently, the two-piece dress consisting of a plain or pleated skirt topped by a jumper blouse, has lost nothing of its old prestige. It is called a "stort" dress and is worn as such. But in dark colors and suitable materials this costume is as suitable in an office as on the tennis courts. And the varied ways in which the blouse may be expressed does away with all monotony for all the staple character of this type of dress.

One of the newest ideas introduced by one of the smart New York shops is the slim straight jumper of eyelet embroidery. In white, with a skirt of sponge, it makes a delightful country frock.

There is also a good word to be said for the sleeveless jumper, which is not new but still fashionable and exceedingly practical both as an office dress and for country wear. When worn to work during "dog days" it provides for refreshing changes of the blouse, and for country wear permits greater latitude in the choice of color, as a bright green of red frock is more apt to be becoming when the color is softened against the face by a cool white blouse.

Such is the theory of the model shown today. The skirt and jumper

Braised Stuffed Steak—Buy from your butcher two pounds of round steak, cut in one slice about one-half inch thick. Trim this piece into an oblong shape. Now make a dressing by combining two cups of stale bread crumbs, two tablespoons of melted butter, three small onions finely chopped (and peeled), one teaspoon of salt, a generous dash of pepper, two tablespoons of beef drippings melted, and one-third teaspoon of sage. Mix this dressing well together and add a very little boiling water—enough to moisten slightly. Spread the dressing over the meat, then roll the slice of meat up like a jellyroll, and fasten it in its rolled shape either with sewers or with string. Brown this meat-roll on all sides in your frying pan, in beef drippings, then transfer it to a baking dish, sprinkle more chopped onion around it (about six more onions minced), add boiling water to half cover the meat-roll, and bake for two hours in a moderate oven with the dish tightly covered. Serve with gravy made from the liquid left in the casserole (that is, simply thicken this liquor with a little flour).

Chicken-Pie Ramekins—Open one can of boned chicken and discard the jelly portions, using only the firm small meat-pieces. Put these into small individual baking dishes with an equal portion of cooked green peas (left-over peas may be used.) Season to taste with salt and pepper, then moisten well with a simple cream sauce made by heating milk to the boiling point then thicken it with a little flour-and-water paste till the consistency of corn sirup; add a generous piece of butter to this hot sauce and turn it at once over the chicken and peas in the ramekins. Sprinkle buttered bread crumbs on top of each little dish, and bake for 25 minutes in a good oven—or until the crumbs are brown and the dish hot and well cooked.

Salmon, European Style—Buy from the fish market a two-pound slice of fresh salmon. Put this slice into boiling water with two teaspoons each of vinegar and salt. Let simmer for 30 minutes, or until the fish is soft. Then remove it to a serving dish and pour over it the following dressing: Boil one-half cup of vinegar with a tiny piece of bay leaf and two whole cloves for five minutes, and turn this hot vinegar over the fish at once. Let the dish cool, then chill it. Serve garnished with lemon, beets and pickles. (This is an excellent dish to serve when the housekeeper must be away till almost dinner-time, for it may be prepared early in the day and kept in the icechest till night.)

WILBERFORCE

Bishop William Decker Johnson, of the A. M. E. Church, addressed 150 candidates for degrees and Wilberforce University Sunday in the annual baccalaureate services in Galloway Hall. In part he spoke as follows: "Although little is known of the details of Isaiah's life yet the evangelistic prophet, not only because of his Messianic predictions and the prophecy of him in the gathering of the Gentiles, but on account of the tone of his writings, which remind us of the Gospel in its earnest pleadings with sinners, its broad promises of free forgiveness, and its sublime pathos.

"There are quite a number of people who think themselves ready for service, ready for almost any emergency, when, in fact, they are utterly unable to fulfill the most common duties of life. To go to work only partially equipped and then expect to succeed, is about as foolish as to hope to hit the target with a gun that has never been loaded. There are thousands of men and women, who possess fine brains and good health, but who can never get above a certain grade in their work, because they lack special training. They are like diamonds in the rough, of superb intrinsic value, which can be brought out by grinding and polishing, but are practically worthless while they are in the rough.

"The time has gone by when the versatile man, the man who can do many things indifferently, but no one thing particularly well, can succeed. Today is the day of the specialist, and youth who is going out into the world to fight its battles will find that there is nothing like a good sound education and training for his life work.

How gratifying, therefore, to see young men and women, no matter how poor, manage to go to some college or to get some higher training, hoping thereby to enlarge their life assets, to discover hidden ability of which they may be ignorant. How pleasing to see them take special courses, expecting to get some hint which will help them to make themselves larger and better fitted to win success. "Prepare, prepare, prepare,"—that is my advice to young people of today.

"After you have gone out into the world to wrestle with its perplexities, and difficulties, few if any of those whom you meet will care whether you graduated from Wilberforce, Tuskegee, Howard, Fisk or Morris-Brown, but everybody will care whether you are a real force among men, that is, trained, disciplined force.

"Some one has said, 'Knowledge is Power.' But this is only a half truth, and some one has suggested that a half truth is akin to a lie. Knowledge is power, but not until it is applied; it mounts, to but little until it is used in service to someone else.

"It is said by those who have ventured into the Arctic seas, that it is a common thing to see a huge iceberg moving in a direction contrary to that of the wind or the current. The secret is, that its immense bulk reaches down to an undercurrent which propels it on its way independent of what takes place on the surface. The smaller objects floating on the water travel with the surface movements, but the large body obeys the deeper more powerful force. This suggests that we have two classes of people in the world, those who are controlled by the surface currents and those who are anchored in the mighty undercurrents of divine energy. The one class is short sighted, and cannot see afar off; the other has a spiritual vision, not limited by the things of sight and sense. The one is uncertain and unstable, not knowing what course to pursue; the other has a straight course marked out with chart and compass to guide. The one is disturbed by doubts and fears; the other has a mind at ease through an unshaken faith and a settled life policy. The one is ever at the mercy of circumstances so far as faith and hope are concerned; the other moves on, confident, with eyes riveted on the star of Hope and Assurance, because it moves as God moves—toward the same ultimate goal.

"First of all, remember that life is serious; that it means something to live, and that you live this life but once. Every tick of the clock tells you that another second of your life and time that has been allotted to you has come and gone. Seconds are lost in minutes, minutes in hours, hours in days, days in weeks, weeks in months, until one by one we tear the tabs off the monthly calendar, and finally the years have come and gone and your life is past. But let men can think what life is until it is ebbing away and then the sun of life is sinking behind the western hills of time.

"I have set before you your duties. May God give you grace to perform them. To live that you can fix your eyes on you with tears of hope and joy. May you walk in the steps of the Holy Saviour and through his grace fulfill the great Mission that awaits you. By earnest purpose, by self-control, by watching and prayer, by those heavenly aids and illuminations which he that seeketh shall find, you may all unite yourselves in living bonds to your Master, Jesus Christ—may love as He loved, may act from his principles, may suffer with His constancy, may enter into His purposes, may sympathize with his self-devotion to the cause of God and the race, and by likeness of spirit, may prepare yourselves to meet him as your everlasting friend."

HORACE'S ULTIMATUM

Chapter XXIV

Frightened, perhaps more than she had been at the burglar, Natalie shut herself in her room. She shuddered as she thought of Horace's face when he looked at her after her insulting speech. Yet, after all, she had said no more than Mrs. Crandell said to her.

Her door open, Natalie listened. Horace ordered the butler to help him search the house.

"He must have hidden somewhere in the house after he left my wife's room, waiting his chance while we were at dinner," he said.

Natalie smiled. He believed her at last. Yet she dared not go to him, dared only to sit and wait. Mrs. Crandell's cries had stopped, but there was a good deal of noise, opening and shutting of doors, Horace, with a police officer came to her.

"You heard nothing while we were at dinner, Natalie?" Horace asked sternly. Then explained his wife had been frightened and had had her dinner served in her room.

"The fellow must have hid himself in the shadows or gone up another flight, then when you had gone down, ransacked the rooms," the officer said. "Too bad you didn't believe your wife, you'd have caught the fellow."

Horace flushed at the officer's tone, but Natalie repressed a smile. Horace had not believed her, had believed his mother instead, and because she had said so, had thought her hysterical. Well, for once she had an opportunity to crow over them. She had no sympathy for Mrs. Crandell's loss, no sympathy for her. It might have been prevented had they treated her differently.

The officer asked her a few questions, but as she had not seen the man's face she could tell him little. They soon left her, Horace, with the same stern, set face, he had when she spoke to his mother.

An hour later, when all had been done that could be in the matter, at least for that night, Horace approached her.

"Natalie, I wish you to go and apologize to Mother at once."

"For your insulting speech when she was in such distress? His voice was hard and stern.

"Is she willing to apologize to me?" She said the same thing—used the same words to me, and in addition implied that I was a liar."

Horace grew white.

"Have you forgotten you are speaking of my mother?"

"No one could ever forget that in this house," Natalie was fast losing control of herself, partly through fear of the look on her husband's face.

"Are you going to apologize to Mother?"

"Not unless she apologizes to me first. She offended first, so that's only fair."

"You mean to defy me, insult my mother?"

"Yes, if you call it that. I am your wife, and surely a wife has her dignity to support as well as a mother. When Mrs. Crandell tells me she is sorry she doubted my word, spoke as she did to me, then I'll apologize and not before." The unholy joy Natalie had felt before again flooded her. She was almost enjoying herself. She had asserted herself. And for once Mrs. Crandell had been wrong.

Natalie did not stop to think of what might follow such a declaration of independence, of the hurt she was inflicting upon Horace. Had she, it is doubtful if it would have changed her attitude. He, too, quickly, had accepted his mother's explanation of her excitement; he too had doubted her word. Sternly he asked:

"For the last time, Natalie, will you apologize to Mother?"

"For the last time, Horace, when she asks my pardon first." This time Natalie's voice was a little tremulous. (She never had seen Horace look so.)

"Until you change your mind we are strangers," he replied in a harsh voice, which with evident repression he kept low.

"What do you mean—strangers?" "Just what I say. I shall have nothing to say to you until you apologize to my mother."

He turned and quickly left the room.

JEWETT SIX PAIGE BUILT

Mother—"Dear me, I wonder if it will be raining at the lake today?"
Father—"Never mind, dear, we can put up our windows in a jiffy."
Frank—"Yes, and we are sure to get through with a Jewett."

This Year-Round Jewett Pleases All the Family Comfort That Defies Weather—Performance To Be Proud Of

Jewett Sedan is breezy and cool on hot days. All side windows lower, as illustrated. You enjoy all the "openness" of a touring car. In the dusty stretch or sudden storm, raise the windows and you are just as snug and clean as at home. Lock the doors and luggage is safe.

When Jack Frost comes, this Jewett Sedan is doubly prized by all the family. With windows closed tight—they do close tight—you are comfortable on the bitterest days. You will go out oftener, keep in closer touch with your friends, really use your car.

But Jewett Sedan gives more than weather comfort. With the longest springs of any car its size—and costly, deep seat cushions—it defies rough roads. Its rugged construction—Jewett is 200 pounds heavier than comparable cars—gives big car riding ease. It is finished, fitted and built to please and endure. Slam the doors. The sound bespeaks substantial worth.
